BRING ADVENTURE HOME

Why travel away when you can indulge the best of a nomadic lifestyle on your walls in a mix of timeless and spicy colourways with the Resene Nomade Wallpaper Collection.

MORE IS MORE

Turn your home into a many-coloured maximalist delight with hues to make surfaces and spaces sing.

The over-the-top ethos of maximalism has made a triumphant return and we're finding ourselves revelling in the joys of jewel tones and statement ceilings. A common misconception about maximalism is it implies the need to jam a space full of a lot of stuff. However, it's much more about using plenty of colour and pattern to pack a room with visual texture.

Become the curator of your space by showcasing collections of things that bring you joy and reflect your personality. Whether you are hanging botanical Resene wallpaper or arranging artfully painted objects on your shelving, try to abide by the aesthetic adage of William Morris: "Have nothing in your house that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."

Maximalism is the art of finding an attractive balance so that more really does become more. The key to getting a successful look is through a curated Resene colour palette or sticking to a consistent colour family. Take a step up from a tonal palette and bring in related hues from the colour wheel. Greens, yellows and turquoise bring a sense of brightness to dark blue interiors, especially when paired with a touch of Resene Alabaster white.

There will also be plenty of surfaces where you will want to increase the visual texture and add patterns where there wasn't one before. In this space, a 'glazed tile' effect was achieved on our floor with a basecoat of Resene Walk-On tinted to Resene Rice Cake. Then we applied Resene FX Paint Effects medium mixed with Resene Tangaroo through a stencil using a flat artist's brush.

Why choose one colour when you can have two ... or more!
